

To Whom It May Concern:

Please restor local radio and bring back LPFM. According to Sut Jhally, radio is the most local of our communications mediums. When a large media conglomerate streams the same morning show into hundreds of markets, radio loses its connection to the community. Community radio brings the local aspect back to radio -- something I look for every day on the air, but can't seem to find. If local issues were debated and represented, and I could hear them through a non-commercial form, I would consistently turn to radio for information. Thank you for your time. Sincerely,

Erica Holt
